Course Description: This course is intended to familiarize students with aspects and perspectives of diversity and culture, the concepts and importance of culturally responsive teaching, and the Act 31 requirement for teacher education students. Students will have opportunities to incorporate concepts from class into their Multicultural Field Experience

- Course Objectives: At the conclusion of this course, students should...
- be familiar with their own cultural background
 - understand their role in a culturally diverse world
 - be familiar with the concept of culturally responsive teaching
 - have practical experience working toward becoming a culturally responsive teacher
 - understand the concept of multicultural education and the importance of multicultural assessment
 - be able to discuss biases/prejudices of teachers and barriers to diversity
 - be familiar with Act 31
 - be able to integrate Act 31 content into their teaching
 - be able to understand the perspective of a person from a different cultural background

Student Expectations: Students are expected to be punctual in attending every class period, have prepared for each class, and fully participate in all class activities.

Accommodations: Your success in this course is important. If there are circumstances that may affect your performance in class, please let the instructor know so a plan can be developed for you to have opportunities to be successful. Students requiring special accommodations related to a learning need should contact the McBurney Disability Resource Center, 1305 Linden Drive, 263-2741, for information and assessment.

Academic Integrity: The University of Wisconsin is a highly respected institution of higher education. To help maintain the reputation of the university, and ultimately the credibility of your degree, you are expected to demonstrate academic integrity during this course. Please review the university's statement on academic integrity at <http://students.wisc.edu/doso/academicintegrity.html> and information regarding academic integrity for students at <http://students.wisc.edu/doso/students.html>

Examples of academic misconduct include:

- Seeking to claim credit for the work or efforts of another without authorization or citation
- Using unauthorized material or fabricating data in any academic exercise
- Forging or falsifying academic documents or records
- Intentionally impeding or damaging the academic work of others
- Engaging in conduct aimed at making false representation of a student's academic performance
- Assisting other students in any of these acts

Assignments:Weekly Multicultural Field Experience Postings

Each week, you will post a report on Learn@UW regarding what you did in your Multicultural Field Experience for the week. Postings can include information about individuals you worked with, what you did, how things went, and what you learned about the individuals you worked with and about yourself. The course instructor will respond to your post and ask questions to stimulate deeper thinking on your part about particular issues. You are encouraged to respond to the posts of classmates.

Autobiography (due September 23)

This assignment is intended to allow you to examine yourself as a person and how who you are as a person influences who you are as a teacher. After completing a cultural self-mapping, you need to examine how your cultural self influences how you respond and interact with experiences with diversity. Then, you need to consider how the manner in which you respond to diversity influences who you are as a teacher. Your autobiography will be evaluated on your personal developmental factors, experiences with diversity, attitudes, and implications for education.

Cross-Cultural Event Paper (due October 28)

Experiencing life through the eyes of another person can provide a new perspective. After attending a cross-cultural event, present your thoughts in written form. Cross-cultural events are defined as those that inform about a cultural or ethnic/racial group different from one's own group. The best experience is one that involves personal social interaction rather than observation from a distance. Choose your event carefully to get the most out of this experience. Your paper describing the experience will be evaluated on background details, your personal response to the experience, and implications for education.

Infusing Act 31 into Physical Education (due December 2)

Using presentations and discussions in class, information from the School Education (<http://www.education.wisc.edu/soe/about/resource-service-units/student-diversity-programs/american-indian-curriculum-services/external-resources>), other research you perform, and your own analysis and synthesis as a foundation, discuss (1) aspects of the history, culture, and tribal sovereignty of the federally recognized tribes and bands in Wisconsin you would include in your teaching of physical education. Included in your paper, discuss (2) how you will infuse those aspects of the history, culture, and tribal sovereignty of the federally recognized tribes and bands in Wisconsin into your teaching. As frequent reinforcement of ideas is important, you should consider an entire physical education program at either the elementary level or secondary level for the infusion of Act 31, rather than infusing Act 31 into only one unit of instruction or one lesson. The paper will be evaluated on including two aspects of history, two aspects of culture, and two aspects of tribal sovereignty in your teaching and how you will include those aspects in your teaching. Each aspect of history and culture is to come from a different tribe or band.

Integrating Culturally Responsive Teaching into the Multicultural Field Experience (due December 18)

In the culminating paper for this course, you will discuss how you implemented concepts of culturally responsive teaching in your Multicultural Field Experience. Gay (2002) defined culturally responsive teaching as, "Using the cultural characteristics, experiences, and perspectives of ethnically diverse students as conduits for teaching them more effectively" (p. 106). Gay went on to state that when course content is connected with students' lives and frames of reference, subject matter becomes more meaningful, students have more interest, and academic achievement improves. Your paper will be evaluated on how you addressed the five areas of culturally responsive teaching: developing a cultural knowledge base, building a cultural learning community, cross-cultural communications, examining and responding to cultural curricula, and developing cultural connections, in your Multicultural Field Experience.

Field Supervisor's Evaluation (due by end of finals week)

Your supervisor for the Multicultural Field Experience will evaluate you at the end of the experience. Comments will be requested from your supervisor regarding your dependability/attendance, learning about multicultural perspectives and creating an inclusive environment, your communication with youth and staff, and your initiative and/or creativity.

Grade Breakdown:	A = 93% - 100%	C = 70% - <79%
	AB = 89% - <93%	D = 60% - <70%
	B = 83% - <89%	F = 0% - <60%
	BC = 79% - <83%
